Program, Service, or Event Related to Assessment Project

The Financial Aid Office put on two Financial Wellness Workshops for Student-Parents in January. This initiative was funded by the Student Affairs Parent and Family Programs Innovation and Engagement Fund for Winter Term 2013. The project entailed surveying student-parents for financial concerns and areas of need prior to the workshops, then using the information to design a Financial Wellness Workshop relevant to them. The workshop was offered two times at the beginning of Winter Term 2013. It was offered once on campus during the day at the Zone, and once in the evening the at the Mesa Housing complex where many student-parents live. The evening event included childcare provided through the Early Childhood Education Center.

Assessment Project Description

Student-Parents who attended a Financial Wellness Workshop at the beginning of Winter Term 2013 were surveyed again at the end of the term to find out what impact attending had on their financial wellness throughout the term and what suggestions they had for improving this type of workshop.

Unit/Program Specific Goals and Learning Outcomes

Our goals were to assess student satisfaction, find out what students learned and used after attending the Financial Wellness Workshop and refine workshop content for possible future presentations.

1) Which of the topics presented were personally most important to you?
2) What idea stayed with you?
3) How helpful was it to attend?
4) Has managing your personal finances changed?
5) Were you satisfied with topics and presenters?
6) What topics do you wish were covered?
7) How important are refreshments and child care?
8) What would you suggest to improve this type of workshop?
9) Did you use the Excel budget worksheet that was provided?

Impact of Assessment

All of the respondents indicated that the workshop was helpful or very helpful. All indicated they were satisfied or very satisfied with the content. The method of surveying the population to identify relevant topics was successful.

Budgeting and Financial Aid were the two most important topics to student-parents. Budgeting was the idea that stayed with them the most. When asked the question of how has managing your personal finances changed after attending this workshop, budgeting was the most common response. Since budgeting is the underlying concept/practice needed to manage personal finances, these results indicate that the main concept was conveyed successfully.

71% of respondents used the Excel Budgeting Worksheet that was provided. 28% did not, and indicated they were still working on implementing what was taught at the end of the quarter. This shows that approximately 2/3 of respondents implemented a new behavior, but 1/3 did not.

The suggestions for improvement were mostly requests to provide additional resources on very specific topics that represent current personal financial needs.

Lessons Learned

1) Creating a Financial Wellness Resource Web page for personal financial needs would be helpful and seems needed. It would allow students with various concerns to find the help they need. It could link to campus and other community resources.

Suggested Financial Topics:
   - Investing/Options for Saving
   - International Student Aid
   - Scholarships/Fellowships
   - Preparing Food on a Budget
Other Topics Suggested that probably belong more specifically a Student-Parent Resource List:
- Mesa Child Care
- Resources for Parents Transitioning to UCSD

2) Creating a Financial Wellness Fair where students could access these resources and network with people would raise awareness of available resources and connect students in partnerships that could impact student spending habits and behaviors towards financial wellness.
